ALLIES INVADE SOUTHERN FRANCE

CROSS RIVER, RACE TOWARD EAST PRUSSIA

SOVIET ARMIES WILL INVADE GERMAN SOIL SOON

BY W. W. HERCHER

London, Aug. 15 (AP)—Red army troops have crossed the Bielebahn river in northern Poland on the last 15-mile route to German East Prussia, covered by swarms of Russian armored fighter-bombers which sprayed German position at Grajewo, only two miles from the frontier, Moscow dispatches said tonight.

The remained silent on this sector, where Associated Press Moscow Correspondent Daniel De Luce said an invasion of Germany was likely in the next 72 hours.

One hundred miles to the southwest another Red army, the First White Russian, under Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky, beat down German counterattacks east of Praga, industrial suburb of Warsaw. The Russians last were reported within 11 miles of the Polish capital.

Soviet troops fighting west of the Vistula river, 100 miles south of Poland, captured several localities during the day in their steady battle against reinforced German lines.

Drive Toward Baltic

In Estonia Russian troops in a three-mile advance west of Antsia, seized the rail station of Antsia, only 14 miles from the key junction of Valga, and within 11 miles of the Tallinn-Riga railway which runs through Valga. The Russians captured 80 localities in their drive toward the Baltic sea.

In the area of Krasinian, Lithuanian town 53 miles northeast of Tilsit, German East Prussian rail city, the Russians repulsed strong enemy infantry and tank attacks and inflicted heavy losses in men and material, the Soviet bulletin said.

The first big objective of the Russians on the threshold of East Prussia was the rail junction of Lyck, only 25 miles beyond the shattered Bielebahn river line.

Reserves Routed

"The waters of the Bobr (Biebahn) river ran dark with enemy blood today," said a front dispatch to Izvestia telling of the German flight and close Russian pursuit.

The twisted bodies of German dead cluttered the banks of the river in the area where the Russians bayoneted their way through the moated stronghold of Ossowic, and it was said that Gen. G. F. Zakharov's Second White Russian army found resistance weaker west of the river because German reserves from East Prussia had been rushed into Ossowic only to be annihilated or routed.

The Russian divisions, which had said had been reinforced with thousands of fresh troops, were aiming for the East Prussian rail city of Lyck.

Near Krakow

East Prussia's peril highlighted all action on the eastern front although the Third Baltic army of Gen. Ivan Maslenikov had raced almost half-way across southern Estonia, cutting into chaotic fragments some 200,000 German troops trapped against the Baltic sea.

Maslenikov's troops also had spilled across the Latvian border in their push toward the Baltic sea, and the Moscow radio said that the Red Baltic fleet had sent the major part of its submarine force into action with a dual purpose—to prevent any supplies

Football Blanket Leads Yanks To Rescue In Italy

Grand Rapids, Aug. 15 (AP)—How the unexpected sight of a Notre Dame football blanket startled soldiers of the Fifth army as it entered Siena, Italy, and led to the liberation of Mrs. Adolpho Graziani, former Grand Rapids resident, was revealed today by her brother, Rev. John O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame university.

The blanket, hanging from the balcony of a private home, caused a group of soldiers led by Capt. Thomas A. Wright, Redemptorist priest, to investigate and find Mrs. Graziani where she has been forced to take refuge with her husband.

Mrs. Graziani explained the blanket was given to her by another brother, Dr. Frank O'Conor, former Notre Dame football player.

INVASION NEWS CHEERS PARIS

Germans Burn Records As They Prepare To Flee City

London, Wednesday, Aug. 16 (AP)—Frontier reports to the London press said this morning that Paris went wild with joy when news was received of Allied landings in the south of France, and that sporadic fighting between patriots and collaborationists broke out in the streets when crowds assembled singing the "Marseillaise."

German police patrols stood by unable to control the demonstration, the reports said, as Parisian enthusiasm soared with pride in the knowledge that French army forces "have ceased to exist as an army."

Rain, which fell in sheets across the battlefield and sent the swarms of warplanes back to bases, das the only hope of Field Marshal Gen. Guenther Von Kluge, trying to extricate his forces through a shell-scarred gap below Falaise now narrowed to nine miles.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower

took personal command of the Allied field armies in Normandy as a new invasion on the southern coast of France tore another hole in the crumbling walls of Hitler's European fortress.

Great Victory

British and Canadians on the north and Americans on the west and south closed in on the pocket for the kill which will mean the greatest victory for Allied arms in the west in this war.

Even should the bulk of the 50,000 or more Germans believed still in the trap manage to elude the Allied armies, they will be in no condition to stand and fight before Paris for an officer declared the Seventh army had lost most of its equipment and material.

American Third army, existence of which was first disclosed officially yesterday as other new details of the Allied organization in the west were made public.

Bradley in Charge

The newly-formed American organization has been named the Twelfth U. S. Army group, and it is under the command of Lt. Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, British army group commander.

Hard-hitting Gen. Patton commands the American Third army under Bradley and Lt. Gen. Hodges has taken Bradley's former place as commander of the American First army. A French division of armor under Brig. Gen. Jacques Leclerc, famed desert general who pushed up from Lake Chad to join the Allies in the North African campaign, is fighting under Patton.

Under Montgomery are Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey of the British Second army and Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar of the Canadian First army.

LETTER TELLS ABOUT BRITAIN

Joseph Michel, Schaffer, Is Entertained In English Home

An interesting and descriptive account of a visit their son, Joseph Roy Michel who is with the armed forces in England, recently enjoyed at an English home is given in a letter which Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Michel of Schaffer received from the host, Bill Parker of No. 25, Strathaird Avenue, Barrow-in-Furness.

The letter, much of which tells of a bicycle trip through the English countryside, is in part:

"You will probably find it strange to receive a personal letter from a complete stranger but for my part I feel as if I had known you for a long time after all Joe has told me about you, and it is in fulfillment of a promise made to him that I am writing to you now."

"Well, in the first place you will be anxious to know how he is keeping and I can assure you he is very fit and well. The climate in this country certainly appears to agree with him and the same can be said of his friend, Sgt. Carl Hoglund. They are a couple of very fine young men and a credit to the uniform of their country.

"In order that I can keep my letter in chronological order I think I had better start from the time that I met Joe and give you the story. As you will appreciate England is a very crowded little country at present and with so many American and British troops to entertain in their leisure time it presents quite a problem as the facilities at present are very limited. Well, I and a friend named Lockley saw Joe and Carl looking rather fed up and lonely, or 'browned off' as the British soldier calls it, so I asked them to join us for the evening and we had a grand time. I decided that if I could do anything in the matter the boys would be made to feel at home.

A Second Home

"When I got home that evening I told my wife, Mary, that I had been spending the night with a couple of American boys so we decided there and then to have Joe and his friend over to our place for a meal and to spend the evening with us the following night, and we had a thoroughly enjoyable time. Mary felt quite at home again as she received her education in the U. S. A., her old home having been near Pittsburgh.

Mr. Parker continues with a detailed account of the bicycle trip which he and his guests took during a week end, and continues:

"With regard to mail, please don't worry if you don't hear from Joe regularly, as he is moving between a number of English ports and his mail is not coming to him as regularly as could be desired. He will not be at liberty to say where he is, however, and you will appreciate the fact that it is absolutely essential in the military interests to keep these things quiet as we in this country know full well."

"We in this country have learned to keep a check on our tongues and correspondence if we are not to jeopardize the lives of British and American forces.

"You can be assured that your boy will always have a place to spend any leave he may get as long as we have a roof over this house here, and Mary and I have both told him to consider this his home as long as he is on this side of the Atlantic.

Air-Raid Warden

"Joe and Carl were telling me that they had not experienced an air raid since they came to England and I was telling them to keep their fingers crossed and hope they never would sample one. I feel I have had more than my share of that most unpleasant experience and I can assure you the best place to see an air-raid is at the movies and preferably when the Anglo-American Air Forces are doing the delivery. I have been an air-raid warden since the start of the war and I know what it is like to be at the receiving end."

"I have not yet been called to the armed forces myself as I am an engineering draftsman by profession and up to the present we have not been allowed into the services due to our being engaged on naval ordnance, but as you are probably aware every individual in this country, provided his is fit, must undertake some form of war service, either Home Guard, which may mean serving in an anti-aircraft battery at night, Fire Service or any other form of civil defense, so you will realize the average person has not a great deal of spare time.

"I trust I have been able to bring you some small measure of comfort that Joe is all right and I hope this finds you all at Schaffer fit and well."

Reconversion Program To Present Problems

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—The Republicans will have to look hard to find anything to quarrel with politically in President Roosevelt's radio talk from Bremerton Saturday night.

It was a geography lesson devoid of the magic Roosevelt has put into his radio addresses in the past. He gave it almost as though he were improvising, without any of the smooth cadences which have marked his delivery in other years.

The Press Associations report that he deviated from his text to praise the newspapers and radio for keeping the secret of his trip, so he must have been reading from a prepared manuscript. But it had an extemporaneous sound quite unlike the Roosevelt of 1936 and 1940.

Perhaps it was the fatigue of a long voyage, although in the past the president has been restored by a few days on a ship. Perhaps it's his intense preoccupation with the conduct of the war.

On his desk here he will find several urgent memorandas dealing with the problems of the home front. Within the administration there is increasing concern over the lack of preparation for the transition between war and peace. It is being realized at last that this lack is directly related to the scramble of workers to get out of war jobs and into something that seems to have a chance of permanence.

George Bill Inadequate

The George demobilization-unemployment compensation bill just passed by the Senate, would do all right if we could be sure there would be only moderate unemployment for a short time. But that's a gamble. It's too big a gamble to take.

If we go through a bad period with millions jobless, the provisions of the George Bill will be patently inadequate. Whoever is president will have to start improvising WPA's and PWA's in order to try to check the downward spiral. The unemployed might not be as patient with such improvisation as they were in the '30s.

The alternative to the George comfort that Joe is all right and I hope this finds you all at Schaffer fit and well."

More came Out of that Old Lunch Pail than went In Big sandwiches with thick slices of bread helped to build the brawn that built America's industrial might.

Wartime demands upon men and women, young and old, have brought us as a nation to a stern realization of the need for an adequate diet for all.

So today—in homes, in plant cafeterias and in restaurants large and small —America is wisely recognizing the nutritive importance of bread. Now enriched, it is the finest bread ever set before the human race . . . so good that our ancestors would have called it cake.

When you eat plenty of enriched bread, you improve your diet besides saving ration points for other good foods.

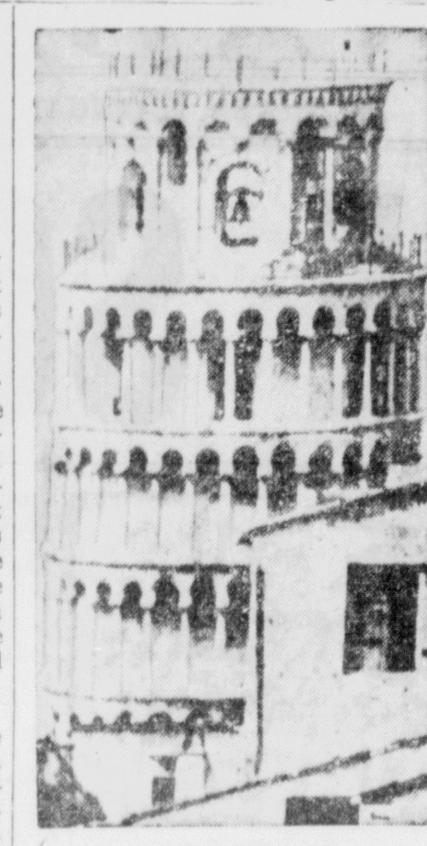

In your own family circle or on evenings when good friends surround you, simple sandwiches become delicacies when served with golden, bubbling Budweiser . . . which accents the flavors of all good foods, yet never loses the identity of its own distinctive taste.

NO LIFEGUARDS AT CITY BEACH

Must Swim Now At Own Risk; Unable To Find Guards

No guards being available to replace those who quit yesterday, until such time as qualified persons can be obtained, there is no life guard supervision at the Ludington beach and anyone swimming there does so at his own risk, the city recreational department announced last night.

Although every effort has been made to line up guards, there has been no response to advertisements and news items concerning the shortage, city recreation director Bevler Butts said last night, and there is nothing the city can do but officially close it down and advise everyone to refrain from swimming there.

City officials expressed regret that circumstances compelled early closing and said that in the event that qualified person can be obtained, the beach will officially reopen until weather conditions make permanent closing advisable.

FALLING LOGS KILL WOODSMAN

Trailer Overturts; Man Caught As He Jumps For Safety

Munising, Mich.—Louis Pankowsky, 54, woodworker of Marinette, was almost instantly killed on M-28 west of here when he was caught under an overturning load of logs, yesterday morning.

The accident occurred on Deer Lake hill about 10:30 a.m. Pankowsky, an employee of the Wm. Fawcett company of Marinette, was riding in the cab of a semi-tractor hauling a trailer loaded with logs. Coming down the Deer Lake hill, west of Munising, the driver applied the brakes and the right front wheel locked and the tractor started swerving out of control.

Pankowsky was sitting next to the right door and as the truck swerved out of control he opened the door and jumped just as the trailer jack-knifed and the overturning load of logs caught the unfortunate man. He was badly crushed.

The accident was investigated by state police and county coroner.

Neither the driver nor the other occupant of the truck was injured.

The body was prepared for burial at the Beaulieu and Madison funeral home and today will be taken to Marinette.

While being arrested he tried to resist the officers, when they finally got him to the jail and the officers were looking for the light he ran from the jail but was later caught downtown. July Water Consumption In City At 5-Year Peak

Water consumption in the city of Escanaba for July totaled 56,840,300 gallons, the highest for any month since July, 1939, according to records in the office of City Manager George E. Bean. The July of five years ago showed a record of 65 million gallons for the month.

During the month of July just past, 88 1/2 per cent of the water consumed in the city was produced from the four city wells, and 11 1/2 percent was taken from the bay. The records show that No. 1 well pumped 14,059,000 gallons for the month, No. 2 well 13,875,000 gallons, No. 3 well 11,492,100; and No. 5 well 10,859,200. The amount pumped from the bay was 6,555,000 gallons.

The peak of over 56 and one-half million gallons for the month of July is indicated when compared with the monthly average for last year, which was 39,500,000 gallons.

A continued dry period was responsible for the high volume of water consumed. Peak consumption period each day was from 5 to 9 p.m. when gardens and lawns were being sprinkled. Many cities have found it necessary to regulate the hours during which residents can use sprinklers, but in Escanaba this has not been necessary despite the heavy peak load periods each afternoon and evening.

Due to the heavy demand and lack of elevated water storage, the wells had to be pumped at high speeds a large proportion of the time. During the peak consumption periods water was being used faster than it could be produced by the wells and it was necessary occasionally to operate the city water plant on the bay shore, which has been kept in condition for such an emergency.

Better Days Ahead

WHILE the order issued by Chairman Donald L. Nelson of the War Production Board, permitting the manufacture of badly needed civilian goods, in plants no longer needed in the war production effort, is encouraging, there is no ground for belief that household and other necessities, made scarce by the war emergency, will be made available immediately.

The order of the nation's war production chief is so circumscribed by necessary restrictions that only the most modest production schedules can be expected in any plant, at the outset. While priorities for materials will be granted industries no longer needed in the war effort, those materials can only actually be made available, if they are not needed in war production. In addition, plants will be allowed to resume peace-time production plants.

Producers of some strategic materials are complaining that strict interpretation of WPA's new order is meaningless because ever present official red tape will prevent little manganese, aluminum and other similar materials from seeing into civilian use, in spite of the fact that those plants can produce great volumes of these needed materials, if they were permitted to operate at full capacity.

As long as government control continues, there is bound to be confusion and fault finding, but to the masses of the people in a once free America, it is refreshing to know that even official Washington now admits that the war has progressed to a stage where it is safe to start production of civilian goods, in even a limited way. Official red tape will be eventually unbound and better days lie ahead.

Another Invasion

WHILE the German Seventh army was making a hurried retreat from Normandy in a desperate effort to extricate itself from a death trap, the Allies early yesterday launched a full scale invasion of southern France along a 70-mile coastline between Toulon and Cannes.

American, British, Greek, French and other Allied boats were massed in the Mediterranean into a huge armada, bringing troops from North Africa, Sardinia, Corsica and Sicily. News correspondents, accompanying the invasion forces, reported that the landings were made with only light casualties, indicating that the opposition was much weaker than that encountered on the Normandy coast.

Outlines of the invasion plan are not yet apparent, but there is the certainty that the Allies will fan out to drive the Germans out of southern France and quite possibly seek to cut off the Axis forces retreating northward from Italy.

That the Allies were able to mass such a large attack force in the Mediterranean while demonstrating overwhelming power in the Normandy sector indicates that they are getting ready to administer a severe blow to the Nazis within France. It is altogether possible that smashing victories in France and Italy within the next few weeks will be sufficient to bring Hitler to his knees. Like in World War I, the Germans may ask for an armistice before our troops have marched into Germany. The difference in this war is that we have rained destruction from the skies upon Berlin and many other industrial centers. This time the German civilians realize full well that there is more horror and suffering in warfare than glory.

Liberation Nears

THE time has come for all patriotic Frenchmen to rise and strike for their own freedom.

This was the message broadcast by General de Gaulle's French Committee of National Liberation on the eve of the Allied invasion of southern France, following brilliant triumphs on the battlefields of Normandy.

Specific instructions were given to Frenchmen in Axis-occupied France to go on strike in the factories, to destroy small German garrisons and to do anything else that would hinder the Nazis. The call for an uprising had been withheld until it was certain that the civilians were in a position to give effective aid to the Allied military cause.

From now on, we shall be able to observe how well the French underground had been organized during the Nazi occupation and to what lengths the people will go to regain their freedom and honor. Whether the French are able to rebuild their nation to a position of power and prestige in this world will be answered by the manner in which they respond to the call for liberation.

Bus Lines Affected

THE critical shortage of heavy duty tires is being felt adversely by the nation's bus lines. Already, many buses have been laid up because of the lack of tires. For instance, the Greyhound Lines last week had one bus idle at Escanaba, six at Duluth and about forty at Minneapolis.

As a result of this situation, bus companies are being forced to take only partial loads on feeder routes so that there will not be an overflow of passengers on main lines. This is being done so that travelers will not experience undue delays at transfer points.

American buses are now carrying half again as many passengers as they did a year ago. American railroads are doing more than two and a half times the passenger business they did before the war.

In normal times this would be regarded gleefully as good business, but in wartime it is a crisis. Here's why. The railroads must carry 1,500,000 men on regular troop movements. That takes half the Pullman sleeping cars and almost one-third of the day coaches. Furlough travel, which means boys seeing their folks before they go overseas, takes more cars. Other necessary war activities, including movements of war workers, require more cars.

Buses get a good many of the short hauls, some of the long hauls, and the overflow. On buses as on trains we are at a point where if a man who doesn't have to travel gets on, he crowds off one who must travel.

The man or woman who stays home this summer is serving the country. The man or woman who goes gadding in public conveyances on needless errands isn't. It would be a good idea to put off pleasure travel until the current transportation crisis, caused by the movement of troops to the battle fronts and the return of wounded veterans, is passed.

Russian Peace Plan

MUCH significance is being attached to a postwar plan for insuring world peace, which was described at length in Russian writers magazine, published in Leningrad.

Now, Ely Culbertson and other American writers have evolved various plans for collective security, but they attract only casual interest here and abroad because they give merely the ideas of individual citizens. But when any article of importance appears in a Russian publication there is the implication that it has official approval due to the fact that Russian newspapers and magazines are generally accepted as government organs.

The Russian peace plan proposes that the dominant nations, doubtless meaning Russia, the United States and Great Britain, should assume the responsibility of safeguarding the peace of the world. As realistic as they are showing themselves to be in actual warfare, the Russians display no confidence in the League of Nations, which failed to prevent World War II. They do not regard the international police force idea as feasible, although they believe there is some merit in having an international air force, which could show that peace-guarding nations mean business by dropping bombs over any country that exhibited an aggressor-like attitude in the future.

The imposition of economic sanctions and scolding failed to stop Hitler and Mussolini from going to war after they flaunted the weak-kneed policy of the League. The Russians would be more realistic and tough in such a situation.

STEADY WORK

(Milwaukee Journal)

R. B. Goodman of the Goodman Lumber Co. has written an instructive pamphlet on "Forest-Farm Working Circles."

Such a "circle" would integrate the work of loggers, farmers, mill operators, chemical plants, other persons or institutions.

Briefly summarized, a forest community, or "forest-farm working circle," begins with a community that is livable, attractive, and well provided with educational, cultural, recreational and other facilities. Above all else, it is planned as a permanent community, not as a prospective ghost town when the forests are logged off and the mills closed down.

Next, the forests for 10 or 20 miles in all directions are not "logged off." They are cut selectively, or are replanted after cutting. Not do the mills close down.

Their operators try to adjust production to the yield of the forest, or else bring raw materials in from "outside" areas. They also try to make intensive use of every forest product, right down to the slash, which is largely converted into chemicals—methanol or wood alcohol, acetate of lime, hardwood charcoal, or something else.

The Round Table

BY RAYMOND MOLEY

It is not often that what one Senator says on the floor influences another Senator's vote. But if a part of the overwhelming majority that tossed out the Kilgore-Murray unemployment relief was not influenced by the arguments of Senators Vandenberg, George and Taft, then Senators are completely immune to logic and reason. It is seldom that Senate debate has shown the clarity, logic and background that these men brought to this complicated and political-ly-embarrassing subject.

Moley almost tragic that this subject of unemployment compensation during reconversion should arise squarely in the middle of a presidential campaign. But circumstances, partly man-made and partly coincidental, were responsible. The coincidence between the election and the probable end of the war was planned by no one, of course. But the man-made circumstance was due to the people, both in the Administration and in Congress, who failed to press for action on this subject months ago. Everybody knew the war would end within a year or so, everybody knew that contracts would be cancelled and everybody knew that some form of additional unemployment relief would be necessary.

MONSTROSITY WAS RESULT

It is now clear that the long delay was the result of the fact that while Senator George was laboring to provide a sensible measure of relief for the unemployed within the four corners of our constitutional and economic system, a group in the Administration was planning to use the emergency to destroy a large part of the state systems of unemployment compensation and also to place a further burden on free enterprise. The Kilgore-Murray monstrosity was the result.

All this becomes clear if the Senate debate is reviewed. Senator Vandenberg, on August 9th, delivered a most powerful speech against the Kilgore Bill and for the George Bill. As his devastating attack continued, Senators Murray and Pepper desperately tried to amend the bill. They really hadn't mean what they had said, apparently. But Senator Vandenberg proceeded to strip disfuse from the proposal and reveal it in its true form. It would, said Vandenberg, destroy the progressive steps taken in the states to relieve unemployment, create a vast federal tyranny over labor, charge the federal treasury with something like $15,000,000,000 a year and fatally impair the efforts of private business to provide the sort of employment that everybody wants.

DEMAGOGUE EMPLOYED

In reply, exponents of the Kilgore plan found refuge in some of the most remarkable clap-trap ever heard in the Senate. Apparently, a demagogue is a politician who is losing his case. Herbert Hoover was brought into the debate, along with unnamed monopolists, the Republican party and Governor Dewey—all of which was not at issue in the case.

But the most palpable fraud was the effort to claim that the Kilgore-Murray plan was a plan for "full" employment. Obviously, it was a bill to deal with unemployment, not employment. It was to provide money for the unemployed, not jobs for the employed.

But apparently politicians are determined to create the impression that there can be, in a free economy, such a thing as "full" employment and that perfect security can be gained by voting for the right people. The Kilgore measure is dead, but the "full" employment myth lives on. And the tragic part of this is that the very workers who are now being deceived will be the ones who, ultimately, will know that it was and is a cruel deception.

The odor of American food induced a Jap to surrender. Ah, another secret weapon.

PRINT BALLOTS FOR ELECTION

Need 18,000 For County Nov. 7; Candidates Receive Proofs

The voters will have four ballots and seven parties facing them when they take pencil in hand to vote in the November 7th presidential election—although one of the tickets does not bear the name of a single candidate.

County Clerk Theodore Ohlen is now submitting to candidates proof ballots for any corrections they want made, prior to printing of 18,000 each of the four ballots for use in Delta county.

The four ballots are: 1—Presidential ballot, with one vote to vote for president and vice president of the party of your choice. Prior to a recent act of the Michigan legislature the presidential ballot could be found at the top of the regular ballot.

2—Ballot bearing the names of candidates for state, congressional, and county offices.

3—Non-partisan ballot which will bear the names of candidates for judge of probate and circuit court commissioners.

4—An amendment ballot, with four proposals for amendments to the state constitution.

The seven parties on the general election ballot are: Republican, Democratic, Prohibition, Socialist Labor, Socialist, American First, and Michigan Commonwealth Federation. It is the last party named which does not have a single candidate's name appearing for any office—but its inclusion on the ballot is required. County Clerk Ohlen has been advised by the secretary of state.

The Democratic and Republican tickets are the only ones with complete lists of candidates for all offices from president down. The Prohibition, Socialist Labor, Socialist, and American First parties have candidates for president, vice-president and for state offices.

Teachers in the Gladstone schools will report here on August 29 for a three day pre-school conference, according to the school calendar for the ensuing year issued yesterday by the superintendent's office.

The session will begin on Tuesday and close on Friday. Arrangements are being made to secure an outside speaker for the meetings, whose name will be announced later. Building meetings will also be included in the conference.

Schools will open on Tuesday, September 5, according to the calendar. There will be a two day recess on October 5 and 6, while faculty members attend the annual M. E. A. convention, and the Thanksgiving vacation will run from November 30 to December 4.

Students will receive a 12 day holiday at Christmas from December 22 to January 3, and a nine day vacation at Easter, which will begin on March 24 and close April 2.

Graduation activities will begin on May 27 with baccalaureate exercises. Class night will be held May 29, commencement exercises on May 31, and school will close June 1.

The superintendent's office will be open this week for the convenience of those who wish to register for the school year, and students who did not make out their schedules last May.

Meeting in its regular bi-weekly session Monday night, the Gladstone city commission voted to purchase $12,000 worth of series F bonds with funds taken from the city treasury.

The commission also passed a resolution authorizing sponsorship of a scrap paper drive by the city, providing a ready market could be found so that it would not be necessary to store the paper.

One other item of business was discussed at the meeting. It was decided to publish a standing notice in regard to when and where commission meetings are held for the benefit of any persons desiring to attend them.

Newhouser Wins Number 19 As Tigers Nose Out Athletics, 3-2

SAVES TROUT FROM DEFEAT

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Game Goes 11 Frames; 2 Detroit Hurling Stars Have 19 Victories

Philadelphia, Aug. 15 (AP)—Lefty Newhouser, working the last 3 1/2 innings in relief, received credit for his 19th pitching victory of the season today as the Detroit Tigers edged the Philadelphia Athletics, 3 to 2, in 11 innings.

Newhouser came to the rescue of his running mate, Paul (Dizzy) Trout, in the eighth after Trout had been called in to replace Frank (Stubby) Overmire, who saw his first shutout go up in smoke at that point. Trout pitched to just two batters, both of whom singled, and Newhouser was waved in to put out the fire that already had knotted the count at 2-all.

Overmire was leading 2-0 on a three-hit pitching job up to the eighth when the A's caught up to him. The A's caught up to him.

By receiving credit for the victory, Newhouser joined Trout as the only two American League pitchers with 19 wins. Newhouser has lost seven and Trout nine.

Jonas Berry, who relieved Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin in the ninth, was charged with the defeat. Philadelphia's ninth in 19 starts this year against the Tigers.

Detroit's game-winning run in the 11th came when Joe Orenzo led off with a single, moved to second on Newhouser's sacrifice and to third on Roger Cramer's scratch hit and scored on a fly to the right field by Eddie Mayo.

Detroit had only six hits off the two Philadelphia pitchers while the A's worked the three Tiger twirlers for nine safeties.

Overmire and Hamlin locked horns in a brilliant mound duel for seven innings, a stretch in which each allowed but three hits.

Have a "Coke" = Welcome back

...or giving a returned soldier a taste of home

To soldiers overseas, Coca-Cola is a reminder of home. To soldiers at home on furlough, "Coke" is part of the old familiar way of living. With frosty bottles of "Coke" on hand, offering a man in uniform a refreshing welcome is an easy matter. Have a "Coke" is always the hospitable thing to say. In many lands overseas, as in your own living room, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become a happy symbol of hospitality.

NELSON LEADS PGA TOURNEY

McSpaden Second; Both Crack Par In Trial Rounds

BY RUSS NEWLAND

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 15. (AP)—This may be getting slightly monotonous, but Byron Nelson, the Toledo, O., shotmaker, and his buddy, Harold McSpaden of Philadelphia, ran one-two today in the 36-hole qualifying trials of the 1944 national P. G. A. golf championship.

Nelson, the tournament favorite, was in the last threesome to finish and he holed out in five on a long-par-four hole to win. Now you tell one.

The Milwaukee Chicks and Kenosha Comets, girls softball team of the All American League, are playing two games at Green Bay this week, one yesterday and the second today. The games are not merely exhibitions, but the results will count in the league standings. The league is scouting around for new places to land, since it has been shown that girls softball does not take root in the large cities. The Minneapolis entry has become an all-road team, avoiding their home city because of poor response.

BROWNS BEAT RED SOX, 6-5

Maintain 6 1/2-Game Lead By Splitting Series With Boston

Boston, Aug. 15 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns gained an even split in a four-game series today as they beat the Boston Red Sox, 6-5, at Fenway Park.

The victory enabled the American League pace setters to maintain their 6 1/2 game margin over the second-place Bostonians.

Big gun of the Brownies' attack was Vernon Stephens, who slammed out his 14th home run of the season with the bases loaded in the sixth inning.

Up until the fifth Yank Terry of the Sox was coasting along with a 5 to 0 lead. In the fifth, the Browns scored one run and came up with five in the sixth.

Brilliant relief pitching by Tex Shirley and George Caster of the Browns held the Sox to but one hit in the last 7 2-3 innings.

While Snieiter and Geertsen were matching shots for the chance to remain in the running, the somewhat dejected little fellow in the locker room was Harry Cooper of Minneapolis.

A couple of golfers at Green Bay got into an argument the other day when one of the players hit a ball that caromed off the clubhouse into an empty beer case. In the argument that followed about whether the ball should be played from that position, the player finally agreed to do so. He swung an iron at the ball, the ball hit the end of the case with enough bite to bounce it out and into a playable lie. That was his

Billy Nicholson's double. Andy Pafko's triple and pitcher HI Van denbergh's second single were the hit items in a three-run fourth inning that gave Vandenberg his season's fifth win against three defeats. The Cubs found Al Gerheuser for 10 hits in the short game. The game ended the Phillies' 144 chores in Chicago, giving them a record of eight victories and three defeats here.

Golf And Hockey Coaches At Michigan Are Released

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 15 (AP)—Ray Courtright, 53-year-old University of Michigan golf coach whose teams have won eight Western Conference championships since 1929, said today he had received notice from the university's board of athletic control advising him of his release, effective Nov. 1, for economy reasons.

Courtright said a letter from the athletic board pointed out that golf was not considered a sport essential to wartime physical training. He said that he would remain here as an insurance salesman.

Courtright, who came here in 1929 from Colorado School of Mines, filled in last winter as wrestling coach and the Michigan matmen also won the Big Ten crown.

The Roving Reporter

he was hunting our new battalion command post. It was supposed to be in a farmhouse about a hundred yards from us, so I got up and went with him.

We couldn't find it at first. We lost about five minutes, walking around in orchards looking for it. That was a blessed five minutes. For when we got within 50 yards of the house it got a direct shell hit which killed one officer and wounded several men.

The Germans now rained shells around our little area. You couldn't walk 10 feet without hitting the ground. They came past our heads so quickly you didn't take time to fall forward—I found the quickest way down was to flop back and sideways.

In a little while the seat of my pants was plastered thick with wet red clay, and my hands were scratched from hitting rocks and briars to break quick falls.

Nobody ever fastens the chin strap on his helmet in the front lines, for the blasts from nearby bursts have been known to catch helmets and break people's necks. Consequently, when you squat quickly you descend faster than your helmet and you leave it in mid-air above you. Of course in a fraction of a second it follows you down and hits you on the head, and settles sideways over your ear and down over your eyes. It makes you feel silly.

Once more shells drove me into a roadside ditch. I squatted there, just a bewildered guy in brown, part of a thin line of other bewildered guys as far up and down the ditch as you could see.

It was really frightening. Our own shells were whanging overhead and hitting just beyond. The German shells tore through the orchards around us. There was machine gunning all around, and bullets zipped through the trees above us.

I could tell by their shoulder patches that the soldiers near me were from a division to our right, and I wondered what they were doing there. Then I heard one of them say:

"This is a fine foul-up for you! I knew that lieutenant was getting lost. Hell, we're service troops, and here we are right in the front lines."

Grim as the moment was, I had to laugh to myself at their pitiful plight.

I left a command post in a farmhouse and started to another about 10 minutes away. When I got there, they said the one I had just left had been hit while I was on the way.

A solid armor-piercing shell had gone through a window and a man I knew had his leg cut off. That evening the other officers took the big steel sling over to the hospital so he would have a souvenir.

When I got to another battalion command post, later in the day, they were just ready to move. A sergeant had been forward about half a mile in a jeep and picked out a farmhouse. He said it was the cleanest, neatest one he had been in for a long time.

So we piled into several jeeps and drove up there. It had been only about 20 minutes since the sergeant had left. But when we got to the new house, it wasn't there.

A shell had hit it in the last 20 minutes and set it afire, and it

CARD OF THANKS

Because we cannot thank each of you personally, we take this way of telling you how much we appreciate your sympathy and help at the time of our late bereavement. We wish to thank friends and neighbors for the kindnesses shown us in the last days. We wish to thank the beloved husband and father, J. Oscar Nelson. We are grateful for the comforting words of Dr. C. A. Lund and Mr. Olson, to the officers and employees of the First National Bank, to those who sent floral offerings, to those who joined in the use of their cars, and to those who comforted us.

MRS. J. OSCAR NELSON.

had burned to the ground. So we drove up the road a little farther and picked out another one. We had been there about half an hour when a shell struck in the orchard 50 yards in front of us.

In a few minutes our litter bearers came past, carrying a captain. He was the surgeon of our adjoining battalion, and he had been looking in the orchard for a likely place to move his first-aid station. A shell hit right beside him.

That's the way war is on an afternoon that is tense and full of might-have-beens for some of us, and awful realities for others.

It just depends on what your number is. I won't believe in that number business at all, but in war you sort of let your belief hover around it, for it's about all you have left.

So we piled into several jeeps and drove up there. It had been only about 20 minutes since the sergeant had left. But when we got to the new house, it wasn't there.

A shell had hit it in the last 20 minutes and set it afire, and it

Germans In Normandy Trap Being Hammered

Normandy, the Germans appeared to have left unguarded one of the most important routes to the heart of France.

Airmen mounting watch over the beaches reported late in the day there was no sign of consequential opposition and that vehicles bearing Americans and fighting Free Frenchmen were "running all over the countryside."

Before dawn the invaders seized the Guerande Islands of Port Cros and Levant, ten miles off the coast, and captured Cap Negre on the mainland due north and 28 miles east of Toulon.

Then the main blows came at undefined points between Martigues and Nice.

Bombers plastered shore targets, a great naval armada plowed the shores with salvos, parachute troops descended on dazed defenders, and seven waves of infantry swept ashore, each 2,000 strong.

German Marshal Johannes Blaskowitz was believed to have no more than five divisions to meet this drive, and these were beset by flaring patriot resistance.

Break Grip On France

Germany's grip on most of France from the Seine river to the Mediterranean coast was broken or slipping fast.

It was the brightest day of four and a half black years for France and the darkest hour since Stalingrad for Germany.

Dispatches from the new southern front said the invasion moved with clockwork precision, and was meeting nothing like the resistance encountered in the invasion of Normandy's bristling beaches.

Officially it was considered unlikely that the German high command would send reinforcements to the south, for they risk being cut off by powerful Allied armies holding the field in Normandy.

Retreat toward the Maginot and Siegfried line might save the German army of the south, but another stand-and-fight order from Hitler would leave it facing the fate that has met the Seventh army in Normandy.

Eisenhower In Charge

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower took personal command of Allied field armies in northwestern France to hasten the destruction of the bulk of this army, tossing in a tightening trap in the hills of Normandy.

The roof of the German corridor in Normandy's hills and hedgerows was caving in, with Canadians storming to within a mile of pivotal Falaise, nine miles above where the Third American army is pounding north against fierce resistance in an attempt to close the trap.

American forces at the west end of the corridor drove forward two to four miles, while British troops pressing down from the north stormed the German citadel of Vassy, and were threatening Conde-Sur-Noireau.

Squeezed on all sides, the Germans were probing the south limits of the trap for a weak spot through which their thousands of confused soldiers might escape.

Some Escape Trap

Some of them braved the hell of shells and bombs sealing off the escape hatch and fled during the night, and unofficial estimates were that 50,000 or more of the 100,000 to 200,000 in the Seventh army still were inside.

But as hundreds of the enemy hands raised in surrender, trooped into the Allied lines, Gen. Eisenhower declared the Germans were "taking a sound beating."

Canadians pressing on Falaise were little more than two miles to the north, and by storming into Epaney to the east were less than a mile from the Falaise-Lisieux road of escape.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third American army fought to within eight miles of Falaise on the south without regard to the action still raging in Argentan, five miles behind it. This hard-hitting force had driven 250 miles in three weeks.

Americans on the offensive at the western end of the corridor solidified their hold on Ger and fought on eastward to within a mile of the highway junction of Tinchebray. American capture of Domfront, the enemy's southern stronghold on this sector, was confirmed.

Other American forces put the stopper in a sector where German armor was reported probing Allied lines by capturing La Ferte-Mace, between Domfront and Argentan.

Old Age Case Load Continues To Drop

Lansing, Aug. 15 (P)—Michigan's Old Age Assistance case load is expected to continue to drop even lower than the 2,500 decline experienced in the past year. F. Fauri, state social welfare director, asserted today.

With 5,485 cases of old age assistance listed currently, compared with 8,798 a year ago, Fauri declared "the trend is still downward and it doesn't look like we have reached the bottom yet. We are closing cases faster than we are opening new ones, which is remarkable because the number of employable persons on the rolls has been pretty well combed out."

PLAN OCEAN ROUTE

New York, Aug. 15 (P)—Captain Edward V. Rickenbacker, president and general manager of Eastern Air Lines, announced today the company planned post-war expansion to Central and South America and would not apply to the civil aeronautics board for a route across the north Atlantic to Europe and Asia.

Coast Guards Lose Boat In Rescue Of Sailor And Woman

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 15 (P)—

A Coast Guard boat sank and two crew members were hurt in a series of accidents after the craft had rescued a sailor and a young woman from drowning in a storm on Lake Michigan today.

Ens. Frank Sprague, 22, stationed with the Navy at Tacoma, Wash., and his sister-in-law Mrs. Norma Sprague of Charlotte, N. C., were rescued and revived by Coast Guardsmen after high waves had capsized their sailboat. They were not in serious condition.

While the sailboat was being towed to port by the Coast Guard vessel it struck the latter and the Coast Guard boat began to sink.

It managed to reach dock here, though, and was being raised for repairs when a crane collapsed.

Roy J. Enoe and H. J. Miller, Coast Guardsmen, were thrown into the lake. They were pulled out and taken to a hospital for treatment of possible internal injuries.

have been sunk and 42 vessels and barges damaged.

A week ago MacArthur reported that Yap, Japanese naval and air base 800 miles east of Mindanao, "appears to have been neutralized."

The Palau Islands, important enemy base about 500 miles east of Mindanao, has been under almost daily air attacks since early June.

HIT KURILES

Washington, Aug. 15 (P)—Pounding the north Pacific Kurile Islands on two consecutive days, American bombers blasted shipping, airfield installations and defense positions on Paramushiro, Shumushu and Araldo islands Friday and Saturday. The Navy reported today.

Shipping was struck near Paramushiro and Araldo, northwest of Paramushiro, on both days. A patrol vessel was sunk by strafing near Araldo in the first reported attack on the Japanese positions there.

Between 15 and 20 enemy fighters attempted to halt the 11th army air force Liberators carrying out the Friday raids, but succeeded in inflicting only minor damage on two of the big bombers.

Three of the enemy planes were shot down, five probably shot down and two damaged.

Several enemy fighters also attempted to intercept the Venetia search planes which struck Araldo but did not press home their attacks. Three Venturas were damaged slightly.

The navy also reported that an "aggressive group" of enemy fighters was encountered by another fighter flight which struck far to the south Sunday at Iwo Jima in the Volcano Islands.

One of the Liberator bombers carrying out that attack was lost. More than 35 tons of bombs were dropped on the airfield and adjacent installations on Iwo Jima.

ern jaw of the trap on the Nazi Seventh Army.

The controversial, gravel-voiced Patton, has been leading an army literally "born in battle"

Aug. 1. It has been on the offensive since the day it was created and never has let up a minute.

Living down the soldier-slapping incident in Sicily which put him under a cloud last fall, Patton justified the conviction of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that "Old Blood and Guts" was one of America's finest field commanders.

The supreme commander, revealing today that Patton was on the marching wing of the Third army, said it was "where he belongs."

of the main seaborne landings which followed.

Backed by Armada

Backed by more than 800 warships of all sorts—the greatest naval force ever assembled in the Mediterranean—the first seaborne troops went ashore in broad daylight at 7:30 a. m. (1:30 a. m., EWT), at several unidentified points between Marseille and Nice—a 125-mile stretch of rocky coast.

Heavy aerial bombardment preceded the invasion in a final installment of the aerial softening-up process that had been in progress for three days.

One Allied pilot, acting as a naval artillery observer, said he had flown 60 miles inland without seeing any big concentration of German troops.

The Germans apparently already had been forced to pull a large part of their troops northward to meet the threat of Gen. Eisenhower, even though they themselves had been predicting the Mediterranean landings for more than a week.

March Unimpeded

Allied headquarters said only that the landings had been made successfully "along a considerable part of the coast between Nice and Marseille." The German radio reported that the focal point of the invasion was around St. Raphael, 16 miles by air west of Cannes, famous peacetime pleasure resort, and told of another landing at Bormes, 25 miles east of Toulon.

In the last coastal bombings, the planes used small bombs designed to destroy whatever German troops and guns remained, without creating craters large enough to impede the thrust inland.

That it was not impeded was indicated by a field dispatch from Herbert L. Matthews of the New York Times, representing the combined American press, who wrote tonight:

"A flabbergasted American army numbering many thousands is well into southern France this afternoon and going fast. It has been done virtually without opposition and with amazingly small casualties."

"The Jerries were caught completely by surprise, and what few there were waiting for us have been scattered or captured."

Veterans In Spearheads

For the present, at least, the southern front remained under Wilson's supreme command, independent of Gen. Eisenhower's in the northwest.

The designation and composition of the invading armies remained military secrets. Its commander also was not identified.

A denial was issued here to London newspaper reports that the American Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, deputy to Wilson, was field commander of the invading forces.

Veteran American units formed the major spearheads of the onslaught.

Some of them had been through the fighting in Tunisia, Sicily and Italy. Alongside them were French units.

An Allied communiqué reported that British troops also were participating, but a navy communiqué referred only to the landing of French and American troops.

This presumably indicated that the British participants were among the airborne forces only.

Authoritative sources emphasized that the entire invasion operation was complementary to the operations in northwestern France and had been planned for many weeks to dovetail with Eisenhower's over-all plans for the French campaign.

Tuesday confirmed Patton's promotion to the permanent rank of major general. The senate military affairs committee had withheld approval of the nomination since last October over the soldier-slapping incident, but endorsed it unanimously after disclosure of his new role. Reproached by Eisenhower, Patton publicly apologized to his troops and never has let up a minute.

Strike Called Off

Menominee.—Signal Electric Mfg. Co. resumed operations after a work stoppage that started last Thursday afternoon with a walkout of about 40 machinists, members of the AFL Electrical Workers Union. Rainfall Welcome In Delta County

More than one-third of an inch of rain fell late yesterday afternoon and evening and Weather Observer Henry Hathaway said indications were it would continue all night and part of today.

It was a welcome, badly needed rain.

It came slowly so that there was no runoff as in the case of downpours.

The fall eased a critical forest fire situation in the Upper Peninsula.

It also will prove of untold value to farmers as it is bound to benefit the corn to a great extent and the grain crop some. Most of the potato fields will be aided as will truck gardens.
